Exopolitics Denmark Attends Alternative Climate Summit - Screening of Videos About Suppressed and Exotic Technologies

Pia Larsen from Flex Music will be hosting a video-event at the Alternative Climate Summit in Copenhagen on December 16th 2009. She will be showing several clips of the director of The Disclosure Project Steven Greer, MD. He will be talking about the exotic and suppressed energy and propulsion technologies which have the potential of solving the pressing energy- and global warming problems. One of the videos will be an excerpt of Greer's presentation at Exopolitics Spain's summit in Barcelona in 2009.

Larsen is also expected to promote her activist song VENUS AND MARS at the event. This contains a Steven Greer sample from The Disclosure Project's famous press conference at the National Press Club in May 2001:

"There is no evidence, I wish to emphasize, that these life forms from elsewhere are hostile towards us, but there is a great deal of evidence that they are concerned with our hostility. There are times when they have neutralized, or rendered inert, the launch capabilities of inter-continental ballistic missiles. Witnesses here today will describe those events to you. They have shown clearly that they do not want us to weaponize space. And yet we are proceeding down that dangerous path."

Several people from Exopolitics Denmark's staff will be present at the event, including the director Frederik Uldall. This will hopefully generate a fruitful Q&A-session after the screening.

Exopolitics Denmark's mission is to

- pressure other countries to declassify documents and to re-open/conduct high-level hearings about a possible extraterrestrial presence and a suspected existence of advanced energy and propulsion systems.
- pressure other governments to provide "truth-amnesty" to government insiders who are prepared to testify under oath, but are constrained by security protocols. They should be given immunity from their security oaths.
